ABSTRACT

A "matrimonial website" may resist the user's search for a mate. Now it is very difficult to find a life partner. The main purpose of this website is to find the life partner we like. Girls as well as boys can resist their profile and find soulmate. Anyone can keep up with your profile photo for no charge. There are two main modules on this site, namely Administrator Side and User Side. Any user can search the website without registration but only a registered user can show their interest to another user. This site has the full power of administrator to approve, edit, and delete user details. The user can upload their photo on the site after the administrator approves their registration. Registered users can log in to the site and even change their photo.

2. LITERATURE SURVEY

Nainika Seth, Ravi Patnayakuni “Online Matrimonial Sites and the Transformation of Arranged Marriage in India” [1]. The advent of marital websites marks the introduction of new technologies into the complex social process of arranged marriages. In their design, mainly U.S. The online persona design model has been created in and is likely to have features with mirrors in a more Western social context of finding dates and partners. Websites offer users a wealth of personal profiles, more choices, the ability to search and filter, many-to-one communication, direct communication, and unambiguity among others. However, the adoption of such online services depends not only on the features and availability of the technology, but also on how the users have created and adapted the artwork that is suitable for the use of the technology. In addition, the images of these websites, testimonials, and close references to close family friends influencing such cases will also play an important role in the use of marital websites. Specific technical features related to arranged marriages in India such as caste, sub-caste and „hunda will play a role in determining whether these services are used and how they are used to combine such considerations.

Sarbeswar Sahoo “Matrimonial” [2]. Wanted Groom: Parents of Nambiar family in Kannur and Mumbai are looking for the right alliance for their 28 year old daughter, Star Chatayam (Sudhajatkam) MBA, working for MNC from well known Nambiar / Nair boys. Interested can contact on... (mobile number... and email...). Therefore, certain marital advertisements are given in the print media. The term "maternal" defined by the Oxford Dictionary Online as relating to marriage or married people and its origin is based on "Matter, Matt-" mother "from Latin Matrimonial via Old French: Old French", a common matchmaking process in contemporary India. Used as a reference, especially through advertisements in print and online media, through marriage bureaus and television marital life. Tried? Or; or "You must open a profile on one of the marital sites". This is mainly because of marital life "offers people a wide range of options to find the right partner for marriage. In fact, marital classifications and websites are becoming increasingly popular in the context of traditional social networks and the growing movement of people. The Internet and Mobile Association of India reports that profile uploads on marital sites increased to 1.9 million in January 201. 0.8585 million in January 2011 - an increase of 1,130 per cent year-on-year.
